INTRODUCTION

Bright Coffee Group

Bright Coffee Group is experiencing uncertainty in its revenue growth and product performance. The business lacks clear insights into which products contribute most to revenue, what times of day generate the highest sales and how sales vary across different products and time periods.Without this information, it is difficult for management to make informed strategic decisions

Purpose

The purpose of this project is to analyze historical sales data to identify key trends, high-performing products, and peak sales periods. These insights will help guide business strategies aimed at increasing profitability and operational efficiency

DATA SYSTEMS

DataBricks

- Databricks is a cloud-based data platform designed for big data processing, analytics, and machine learning
- It enabled data cleaning and transformation using notebooks (SQL)
- Databricks was the main data processing and analytics engine

Excel

- Excel was used for structured data analysis and quick insights
- Helped create tables, pivot tables and charts also allowed for basic calculations and summaries
- Useful for validating data before or after processing

Miro

- Miro is an online collaborative whiteboard platform used for brainstorming, planning and visual mapping
- Created data flow diagrams and project planning
- Supported team collaboration and visualization of concepts

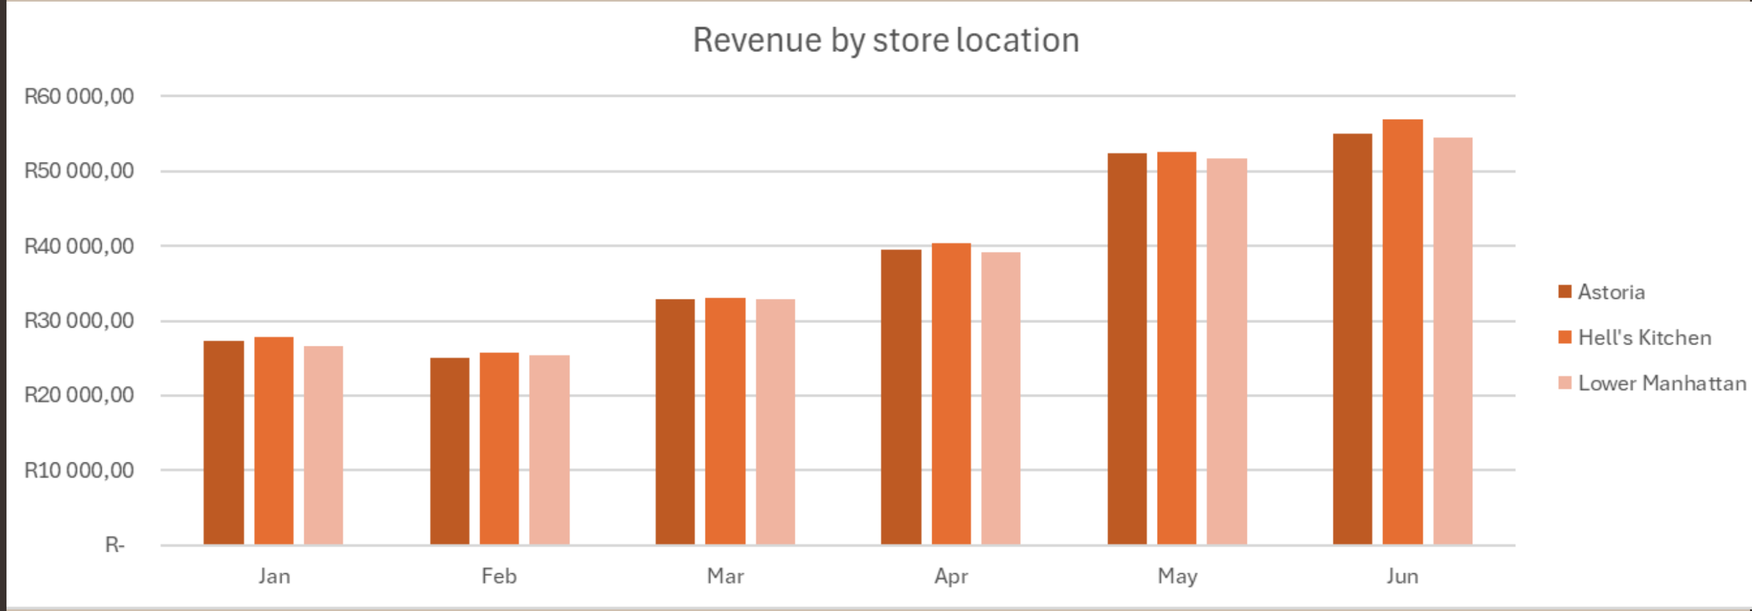
Canva

- Canva is a graphic design tool used to create slides, reports and visual content
- Created visual dashboards, infographics, and slides
- Tool supported for final presentation and communication

REVENUE ANALYSIS BY STORE LOCATION & MONTH

Key Insights

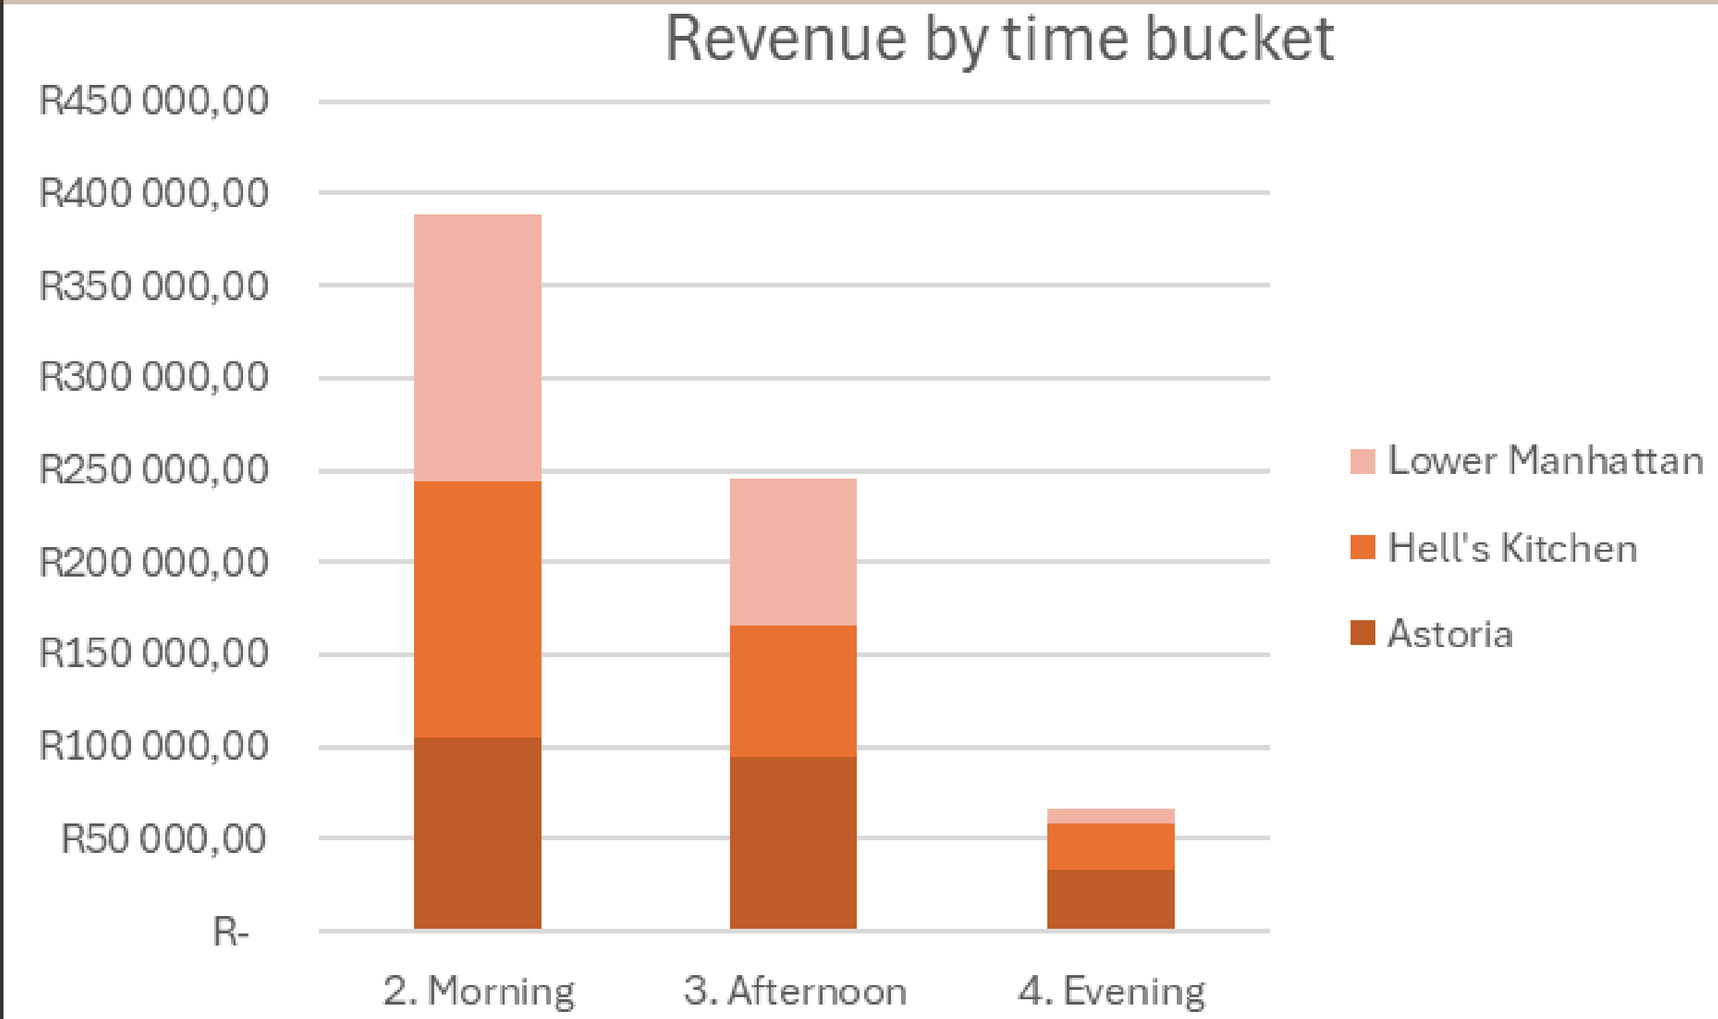
- Revenue steadily increases from January to June for all three stores
- Hell's Kitchen is consistently the top performer however Astoria and Lower Manhattan are not far behind
- Strongest growth period suggests a seasonal spike or successful strategy introduced
- Post-holiday slowdown (people spend less)



REVENUE ANALYSIS BY TIME BUCKET

Key Insights

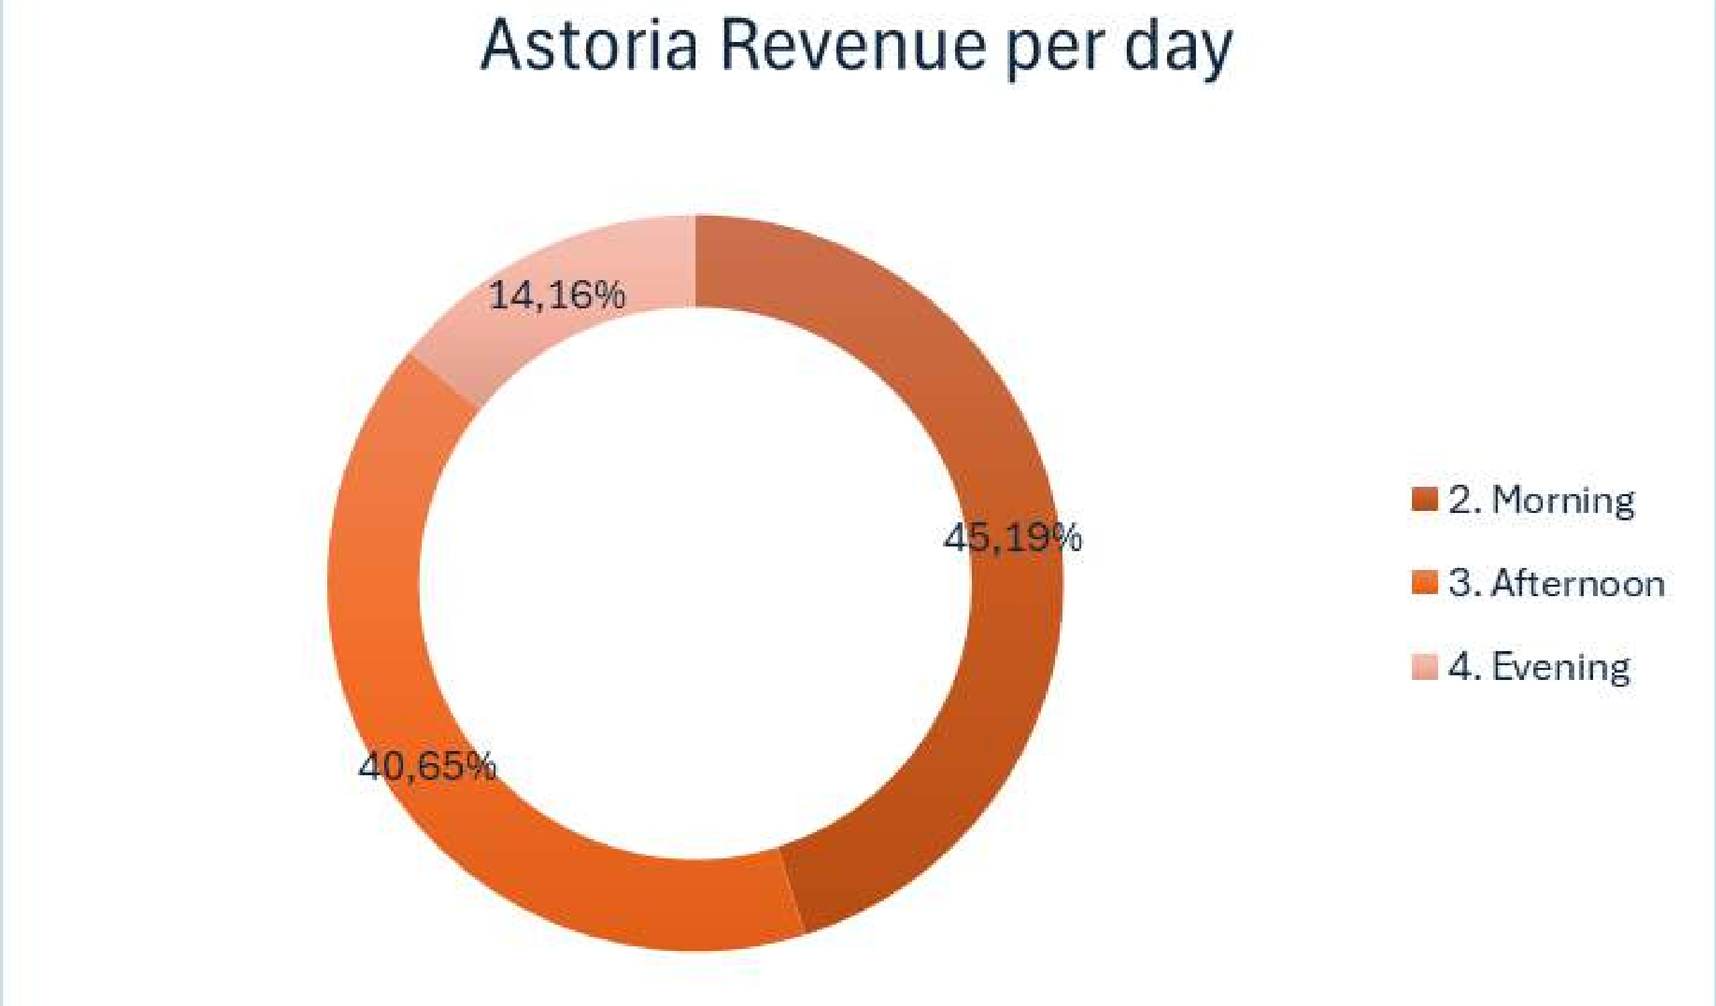
- All stores follow the same trend this is a business-wide behavior, not a location issue
- Morning generates the highest revenue by a large margin which is likely driven by coffee breakfast routine work commuters
- Afternoon drop noticeable decline after morning customers may already had coffee and be less motivated to visit



REVENUE ANALYSIS PER DAY

Key Insights

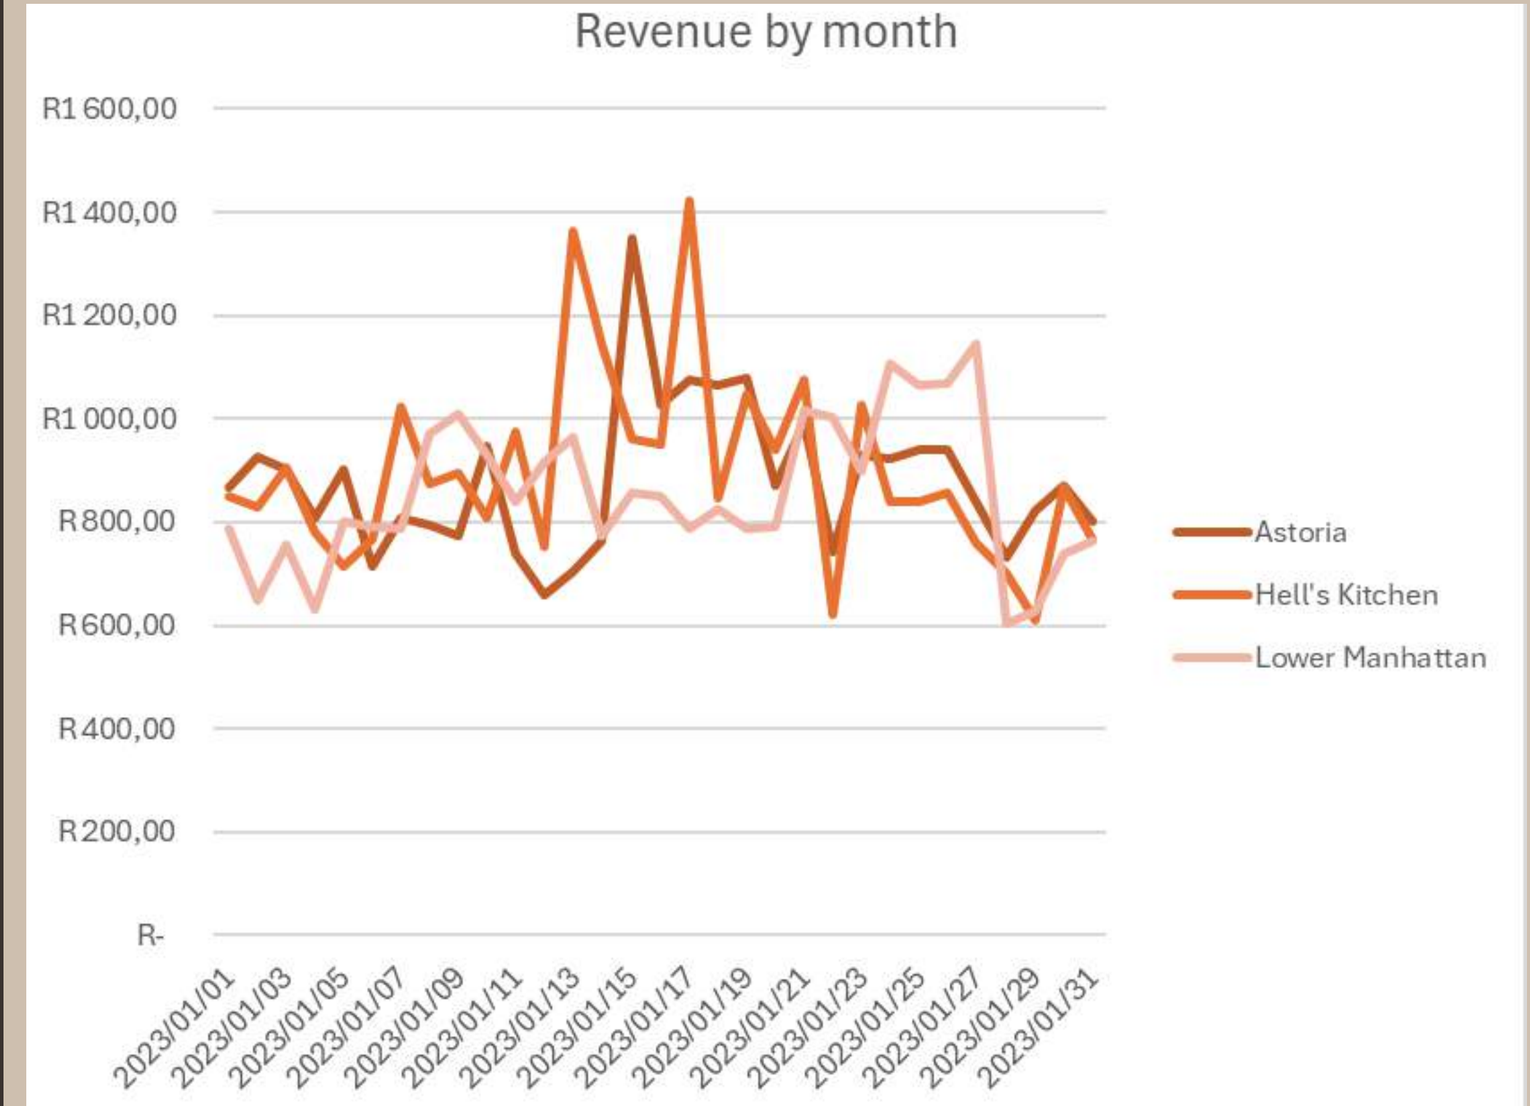
- Morning generates the highest revenue by a large margin (45.19%) to Astoria store
- Revenue Distribution Morning: 45.19% (highest) ,Afternoon: 40.65% & Evening: 14.16% (lowest)
- Astoria, demand and activity often remain high during daytime business hours, with peak usage happening around midday and afternoon periods



REVENUE ANALYSIS BY MONTH FOR BOTH STORES

Key Insights

- Revenue varies significantly day-to-day and indicates inconsistent customer traffic or demand patterns
- Highest sales day - peak days show revenue around R1,300 – R1,400+
- Lowest sales day - lowest dips go down to around R600
- January shows inconsistent performance, especially in underperforming stores



RECOMMENDATIONS

"We believe that business is not just about profit but also about making a positive impact on the environment and the community."

How Other Stores Can Match the Top Performer

- Identify what sells most in Hell's Kitchen
- Promote or bundle those items in other locations
- Analyze what time Hell's Kitchen performs best

How to Improve Afternoon and Evening Sales

- Afternoon Deals (2PM–5PM) "Buy 1 Get 1 Half Price" and discount on second drink
- Loyalty Rewards - double points during afternoon hours
- Evening specials "Evening Chill Combo" (drink + dessert) and discount after 6PM
- Target Different Audience such as students, remote workers and couples/social meetups

Ways Improve January Sales

- Location-Specific Promotions
- Flyers or digital ads targeting nearby customers
- Keep customers engaged all week
- Improve visibility & foot traffic such as promotions outside the store and better signage
- Target Different Audience such as students, remote workers and couples/social meetups
